The idea of instituting a compulsory national service for youth as their before the country since independence. The Radha Krishna Commission had Originally envisaged the idea of national service by youth but is favored a voluntary approach. In the first five year plan also a voluntary approach; on a pilot project basis was recommended in the first instance. As a result of this; labor and social service Camps Were Started.

In 1953 ; the late prime minister pandit Nehru brought the idea of national service by students pointedly to the attention of the chief ministers and suggested that all young men and women between the ages of 19to 20 should be enlisted for compulsory civil service for the nation . In the view of the first instance , the scheme should be confined to university students who should work for certain period in allotted spheres before graduation A committee was appointed under the chairmanship Dr.C.D.Deshmukh to examine the proposal and make concrete suggestions. The committee recommended that national service for a period of 9to 12 months may be required of all students completing the high school education and intending to enroll themselves in a college or a university .

In the right of recommendation of the education commission the problem of providing opportunities for involvement of students in community work was considered at various levels and eventually the ministry of education and youth service, government of india decided to launch the national service scheme during 1969-70

On 27 jullay 1989 Raja Shiv chhatrapati Arts & Commerce College, Mahagon. established by Senapati Prataprao Gujar Shikshan Sanstha, Kandewadi . The college established to the provide education to rural students and create awareness among the students mind about culture, community work and self employment.
